Golden Standard | Switch & Understock

Organizing spaces on your sales floor leads to more time with your customer and increased sales.

Display tables with drawers (knits)

- ❑ Following VM and Allocation Direction, select a single knit category to stock in your table. Never mix styles.
- ❑ Refold each item "floor ready" – A4 paper insert, wide folded, placed nearly in a clear knit bag. Never leave in the factory bag or reuse a bag.
- ❑ Knits should be placed in drawers, marked clearly with size (and type as needed)
- ❑ Follow color gradient

Display tables with drawers (trousers)

- ❑ Following VM and Allocation Direction, select trouser styles to stock in your table. Keep the definitions clear – ex: only Vigos and Ducca; or only Denim
- ❑ Refold each item "floor ready". Remember, you will provide these to a customer to try on. Prevent needing to steam the trousers.
- ❑ Trousers should be placed in drawers clearly marked by size.

Display walls with drawers

- ❑ Following VM and Allocation Direction, select a single category/style to stock in the wall. Never mix!
- ❑ Fold items "floor ready"
- ❑ Clearly label drawers by size and stock the product in color gradient

Other spaces

- ❑ Stores are full of additional sales floor stock space. Work with VM, Allocation, and Store Ops on the best use of those areas
- ❑ Follow all VM and Golden Standards for backstock

Category item (polos) are merchandised on table-top and in drawers.

Sized, folded floor ready, and in color gradient

Golden Standard | Switch & Understock

Organizing spaces on your sales floor leads to more time with your customer and increased sales.

Trousers styles should be limited to precise styles. Each drawer is organized by size, style, and color.

For ease of sales flow, aim for understock that is merchandised in the displays above

Work with Allocation for guidance on understock. Sometimes what is above, is best as a display, leaving more space for faster selling items.

The table is showcasing multiple knit styles, however drawers reflect the season's top style investment to complete every sale
